Medusa settles dust dispute, permit approved

A three-year-old dispute over pollution of Charlevoix's air by Medusa Cement Corp. has been formally settled.

The stipulations of an out-of-court settlement, first reached between the state and the cement company in July 1984, have been met and a permit to operate has been issued by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Air Quality Division.

In addition to the 1984 agreement, Medusa Corp. has agreed to install additional dust control equipment and begin a four-part program to monitor its emissions levels and pollution control systems.

The moves culminate a lawsuit brought against Medusa in November 1983 by Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley and WATCH Inc., Water and Air Team Charlevoix. WATCH also agreed to the settlement.

PLANT MANAGER Elbert Kaiser said the settlement continues dust control measures instituted at the plant, and makes them part of the operating permit at the facility. He said Medusa will add dust collection equipment to its clinker domes, which should be in operation by 1987. A cost estimate for the equipment has not been finalized, he said.

The settlement calls for a program of road sweeping, a program on unpaved roads of adding water and additional material to control dust, and a detailed maintenance plan and inspection scheduled on all the equipment," Kaiser said. "It is very detailed in setting forth what the plant will do and at what frequency. We will have to report monthly what our activities are."

"It doesn't change the way we've been operating, we have been doing these things. It does give us an operating permit, and allows us to deal with the Department of Natural Resources on something other than a court basis."

Medusa has been operating under a "permit to install" license for the past 2½ years. The plant began its summer production Saturday, and should be in continuous operation through the remainder of this year.

UNDER THE CONSENT agreement signed in July 1984, Medusa had to establish a malfunction abatement program and a fugitive dust control program, provide extensive testing and continuous stack emission monitoring, and reimburse the state's general fund $15,000 for surveillance and enforcement of the agreement.

Medusa has cooperated in all areas of the decree, said DNR Air Quality official Richard Alexander.

The state will continue its normal monitoring program, too, Alexander said.

Water plant costs continue to rise

by DOUG TRUAX

City Council agreed Monday to spend $338,457 to have Comstock Construction Company build the addition to the new municipal water treatment plant.

The water plant expansion will increase the capacity of the water treatment plant from 2 million gallons per day (mgd) to 3 mgd to allow for future demands. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is funding 90 percent of the cost of constructing the 2 mgd plant to replace the city well which is contaminated with trichloroethylene (TCE), a suspected cancer causing agent. The state is paying the additional 10 percent.

EPA refused to pay for any capacity beyond current use rates. Council originally planned to have the plant expansion handled by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers which is overseeing the EPA project.

WIENER INFORMED council Monday, however, that using the Corps for the project would cost some $403,000 because of delays in getting the paperwork approved.

He said the less expensive and quicker method would be to contract directly with Comstock Construction which is doing the EPA work. Comstock originally quoted a figure of $359,740 for the additional work, Wiener said, but negotiations with the company brought the figure down to the $338,457.

The city is also paying $25,000 to McNamee, Porter & Seelye for engineering on the expansion.

Wiener said two items the McNamee, Porter & Seelye said were not necessary for the water plant expansion, a flocculator and a mixer, were required by the health department and added to the cost of the project.

The use of city crews to do the work on the expansion was also investigated, Wiener said, but the cost of materials was only $12,000 less than the bid from Comstock. He said a contract with the construction firm would give the city a one-year warranty on the work and would be a better, surer deal for the city.

JOHN ADAMS, project manager for McNamee, Porter & Seelye, said he could prepare a contract between the city and Comstock by next Monday. He asked and was given permission to give the contractor verbal approval for the additional work on Tuesday.

Hal Hill wanted assurances in the contract that if the work was late or the equipment defective it would be the responsibility of the construction contractor. "The city has to be protected," he said.

IN OTHER ACTION, council passed a resolution authorizing the city to act on a ruling issued by Judge Richard Pajtas in Circuit Court in which the city waives its deed restrictions on a parcel of property in the north end of Lake Charlevoix in exchange for $1,000 and the waiver of rights to the railroad right-of-way adjacent to property owned by John and Lynne Malpel, Jr.

The Malpels now own the Lake Charlevoix property in question and are selling residential home sites. The city, however, had a deed restriction on the property stating that no more than two residences could be built on the property. The original intent of that restriction was to allow for a travel trailer park on the site.

According to a 1978 charter provision, the city is prevented from selling, disposing of or waiving rights on property located within 100 feet of a lake.

Judge Pajtas agreed with City Attorney Jeffery VanTresse that the city could bargain away these deed restrictions.

In exchange for the property, the Malpels agreed to waive any ownership claims on the abandoned railroad right-of-way adjacent to property they own near Ferry Beach. The city plans to relocate Ferry Road along the old railroad bed to provide more parking space

New Charlevoix House moves closer to reality

by PEG OHLE

A new "Charlevoix House" came one step closer to reality last week when the Charlevoix County Building Authority announced it would serve as the funding vehicle for the home for young adults with minimal mental or physical impairments.

Leo Hollow, a member of the Building Authority, appeared before the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners to ask their concurrence in the matter, which he received.

Under the plan, the Building Authority will purchase the house at 399 East Garfield for $80,000 and make necessary modifications to bring it up to State Code at an estimated cost of approximately $20,000. The total cost of $100,000 will be borrowed from a financial institution at a rate not exceeding eight-and-a-half percent, with amortization of 10 years.

After the Building Authority purchases the house, it will immediately sell it to Charlevoix House on a land contract on identical terms, calling for payments sufficient to meet the amortization as well as required insurance and repairs.

Charlevoix House is operated by the Northern Michigan Health Services Board. When they announced their interest in the Garfield Avenue house this spring, they were presented with a petition with 20 signatures of neighbors objecting to the house being used as a shelter home for handicapped persons. They said it would reduce property values and pointed out that for years the Bergman Center Workshop was located in the neighborhood.

However, when a public hearing was held to give neighbors a chance to voice their objections to Charlevoix House, no one appeared to object. Instead, a number of neighbors of the present Charlevoix House on Belvedere Avenue appeared to say they had nothing but praise for the way it was operated and the conduct of its residents.

Planners consider lower height limits

by PEG OHLE

Members of the Charlevoix Planning Commission last week took heed of the comments they have heard about the increasing number of variances being granted for building projects as well as the large scale of most of the projects.

Chairman Walter Hufford had earlier stated he thought one reason for the many variance requests was the 35-foot height limit. Developers are trying to get four floors into the 35 feet and end up asking for variances for apartments, he noted.

Hufford suggested that if the height limit was 32 feet, developers would know they could not get four floors in and would have a chance for more creativity with rooflines, etc.

The discussion continued at last week's meeting, with John Friedly proposing reducing the maximum height to 30 or 32 feet, agreeing with Hufford this would prevent developers from attempting to build four-story structures that require variances. This height would also permit varied rooflines instead of the flat ones now being built, Friedly told the Commission.

He also cited the controversy on the density of the Edgewater Inn, now under construction, as well as the Rysberg Inn, scheduled to be built right across Michigan Avenue.

from the Edgewater.

"Maybe we should consider our ordinance with the thought of being more conservative...With the small amount of remaining land, there will be more pressures, and the Planning Commission has to be careful as to how it is to be used, in order to preserve Charlevoix's character", Friedly concluded.

Barb Fells said she heartily concurred with Friedly's sentiments and felt the Commission should work toward reducing the density and scale of buildings so they would conform with the size of Charlevoix and also preserve lake views for residents and visitors.

Alvin Ranger told the group he agreed with many of Friedly's views but believed that away from the lake there are properties that could handle 35-foot high buildings without blocking views and bothering neighboring properties. He agreed the waterfront should be protected and it would be appropriate to put a lower cap on property near the lake, but permit higher buildings away from the lake.

City Planner Gerry Harsh told the Planning Commission that an ordinance permitting different building heights in different areas would be possible. In fact it was accepted practice in some places. He said he would check into the matter and report back at the next Planning Commission meeting.

Mrs. Eleanor Carson plants snapdragons and weeds the petunias outside her home on Michigan Avenue. Mrs. Carson's roadside plantings were an inspiration for Operation: Petunia which each year plants some 48,000 petunias along both sides of the roadway through Charlevoix.

Lake levels remain at record levels

Detroit - Lakes Michigan and Huron remained at record levels in May, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers reported recently.

The May monthly mean level was some 25 inches above the long-term average and 2 inches above the all-time monthly mean high for May, which was set in 1965. Current lake levels are 61 inches above the all-time low May monthly mean set in 1964.

The elevation for Lake Michigan-Huron at the end of May was 2 inches above what it was one year ago and about 1 inch above one month ago. The end of May level of the two lakes was at 581.06 feet above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec. For mariners, the end of May level was 51 inches above chart datum. The Corps' six-month forecast says the lakes are expected to be above the long-term average level during the next six months. The forecast predicts that at the end of June, Lake Michigan-Huron will be about 3 inches above what they were at the end of May the lakes are expected to continue their seasonal rise into July.

At the end of November 1985, the lakes are expected to be 2 inches below what they were at the same time in 1965. The November mean would be above the long-term average for that month but 1 inch below the all-time high mean for November, which was set in 1965.

THE WELLCRAFT 192 AMERICAN

New art gallery draws on talent from throughout nation

by DOUG TRUAX

Artists Chuck and Nancy Koucky have had their fill of art shows. For 10 years they traveled throughout the Midwest each summer, doing up to 25 shows to display Chuck's pottery and Nancy's weaving.

They have also maintained a studio-gallery at their home on M-46 north of East Jordan.

With two small children, ages 13 months and 4½ years, their thoughts started to turn toward something a little more rooted. That train of thought soon led to the idea of a permanent gallery in Charlevoix and without much further ado the Kouckys on Bridge Street was born.

THE IDEA for the gallery took hold in November and the couple was looking at locations for it by the first of the year.

Chuck's father purchased the building, which previously housed Bergen's clothing shop and the adjacent buildings on April 21 and Chuck and Nancy became renters immediately. A few days later they were gutting the building and by Saturday, May 24, the stunning new gallery was open.

The Kouckys say they were able to accomplish the transformation of the building in such a short time with a lot of help from their friends. Not only did they draw on the construction talents of longtime pals like Milan and Linda Plsek, but of the many area artists they have been associated with over the years.

The Koucky Gallery represents a mix of a strong contingent of local artists with an eclectic selection of artists from throughout the country. It is by design. "We want to show local works of art and yet expand on it with a lot of things that are not normally shown in the area," Nancy says. "We want to maintain high quality and a wide variety."

THE KOUCKY GALLERY already includes over sixty artists, 17 of them from northern Michigan. The works range from the realistic nostalgic paintings of Charlevoix's Jim Annis to the large, bold abstracts of Marion Mackay.

The gallery, they say, reflects their own tastes and their combined judgement about the market for art in this area. "After 10 years of doing art fairs, we have seen a lot of work," Chuck says.

Other area artists included in the gallery include Russ and Sue Bolt, Meredith Krell, Walter and Peggy Midener, Jan Glass, Cara Hochhalter, Harry and Kathy Boyer, Ron and Cynthia Tschudy, Steve Toorman, Jackie Woolf, Lynn Fisher and Susan Pacer. The gallery owners say their tastes complement each other.

Nancy's preference is for the bright, bold abstracts, and Chuck is inclined to like the more realistic works as well. He says he is more inclined to pick out something traditional than is his wife.

WORK DISPLAYED at the gallery is not limited to the fine arts. There are numerous examples of crafts including master woodworker Tony Lydgate from California, several glass blowers, jewelers and a wood carver.

The Kouckys plan to handle the volume by displaying some of each artists work and keeping other pieces in their large inventory.

They are having no problem finding artists to fill the gallery. "We get at least one call a day from new artists," Nancy says. "We look at everything."

"Our problem is we are out of space," Nancy says. "Saying no, they note, is very difficult."

Still there are niches in their collection they would like to fill... someone to do contemporary basketry, a neon artist, a contemporary metal worker.

THE PAIR hopes to keep the look of the shop fresh by regularly rotating the works. "What I'm going to like about this is we can change the look of the gallery as styles change," Nancy says.

Certain artists will also be featured from time to time. This summer the gallery will have a special display of the work of two artists doing collage boxes in wood—Peggy Midener and Jean Beach. This special display will run from the end of the second week of July through Venetian weekend.

Next summer they are planning two special showings.

The work in the gallery is divided about 50-50 between items on consignment and those bought outright. The willingness of friends in the art world to give them art on consignment has been a major help in increasing the inventory of this fledgling adventure.

"Part of our good relationship with our artists is that we have been on the other side," Nancy says.

The reaction to the gallery so far has been "real, real good," Chuck comments. "Everybody is so friendly," Nancy adds. "It's really nice."

Now that the Kouckys have put the art show circuit largely behind them they are, well, getting ready for another art show... this time as buyers. They will be attending the American Crafts Council show in W. Springfield, Mass. soon in search of new artists.

They hope, however, to keep the travel to a minimum and by the looks of the traffic in their shop the first few weeks they have been open, they should have little trouble staying busy in Charlevoix.

Chuck and Nancy Koucky in their Bridge Street gallery.

Luke Buck paints Charlevoix but calls open road home

by DOUG TRUAX

Charlevoix images abound in the work of Luke Buck, one of the artists featured at the new Koucky Gallery on Bridge Street.

There are watercolors of the Charlevoix pierheads, the Parkside Restaurant, The Landing, a boathouse in Ironton, an old farmhouse of Ferry Avenue...

You'd be inclined to think Luke was a native.

But in truth the only hometown the Hoosier native can claim these days is a 27-foot motor home which he and his wife, Coleen, use to travel the country, painting and exhibiting at local art fairs as they go.

The Bucks make Charles Kuralt look like an old stick in the mud.

THEY TOOK to the road three years ago when their daughter moved out on her own. Luke for many years operated a studio and art supply store in Nurevoh, Ind., some 35 miles outside of Indianapolis.

With no family responsibilities, the Bucks decided it was time to act out the fantasy of many and hit the road for good.

"We felt like the world was passing us by," Buck said.

They sold their business and studio the first year and went on the road with a van and house trailer. The next year they sold their house and bought a motor home and then to the even larger motor home they have now.

THE ITINERANT LIFE is suiting the Bucks just fine. "I just love it," Coleen says. "I wouldn't live anywhere else."

The Bucks first experience with Charlevoix was three years ago, at the beginning of their odyssey, when they were accepted in the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair. Prior to arriving for that event, they ran into Chuck and Nancy Koucky at another fair and asked if they knew anything about Charlevoix. Well...

One thing led to another and the two couples became close friends. Each year the Bucks park their motor home at the Koucky's house and Luke paints local scenes for several days or weeks. Luke Buck's watercolors are also featured at the Koucky studio next to their home on M-46.

A TYPICAL WEEK for the Bucks starts with the drive to the next show on their schedule. They set up shop and Luke, usually paints or photographs local scenes for three days. They do the show on the weekend and then are on the road again for the next art fair.

Despite the seemingly free-wheeling schedule the Bucks are at the mercy of the weather and often don't hear of their acceptance in a show until a month or two beforehand.

They enter only juried shows, about three a month, beginning in Florida in the winter, gradually working their way north as the weather warms.

It is a life that also demands a lot of discipline, Coleen says. "It is too easy to take a day off."

The Bucks have put 12,000 miles on their motor home since last September and Luke has produced 137 watercolors. Nearly everything he paints, he sells. "Very seldom do I carry a painting for a full year," Luke says.

HE PAINTS at a table on the inside of the motor home. When he is done, Coleen sets a board across the kitchen sink and puts together the frame and glass. Voila, another painting ready for the next art show.

Buck, who was born and raised in Indianapolis, learned his painting from his artist father, Harold Buck, a traditional landscape painter who works in oils.

Luke has been in art all his life. He worked as an artist in the Army, did commercial art for a time and opened his studio in the Brown County area in 1970.

His enthusiasm for art has not waned. "It gets better every year," he says. "I like it more and more all the time."

Nor has being on the road taken its toll. "We've got the bug now," Coleen adds. The couple plans to travel to the West one day and is thinking of a trip to France in a couple of years. They have high praise both for Charlevoix and its art show. "The little Charlevoix show is one of the most sought after among exhibitors," Luke says. "It is the best one-day show we do."

They also exhibit in the Portside Art Fair in East Jordan.

WHERE NEXT, he is asked. Let's see, Buck says, thumbing through the engagement calendar, Chicago's Old Town next weekend... Cincinnati... Manistee... St. Joseph... Grand Haven... Traverse City... East Jordan... Charlevoix... Michigan City, Ind. and then out East.

There is a lot of country out there and Buck is doing his best to paint as much of it as possible.

Luke Buck's studio and residence is a 27-foot motor home.

Belvedere readies for tourney

by Edith Gilbert

THE SCAFFOLDING has finally come down on the corner of Bridge and Antrim Street, the Villager Candies Inc. officially opened last week. The new, young owners of the building are Paul and Barbara Bandrowski, both graduates of Central Michigan University. Some of you might like to know that Barbara grew up in Cheboygan, and Paul in Milford. Both majored in business administration, met at school, were married last year, and moved into the upstairs condo in January.

The little ice cream parlor will feature a concoction called Flurry, which is made with ice cream mixed with Villager chocolate candy, or cookies or brittle, all blended together. Now if that doesn't suit your fancy, you might sample a banana split or a large ice cream soda. (Will these equal the sodas I used to sip at the Golden Pheasant in San Francisco? Those were world famous—)

Summer visitors will be pleased to know that the Villager will mail anywhere, so bring your Christmas list with you when you go. And finally, let's hope the Bandrowskis will find the time to go downhill skiing this winter, because this is the problem for those who successfully settle in this area. It's happened to the best of us.

DID YOU KNOW that if you have your dog with you in the car when you go to the drive-in window at the Charlevoix County State Bank, the teller will hand you a dog biscuit along with your deposit slip? Just ask my dog, Tyke, and he'll confirm it with a loud woof.

I STOPPED by the pro shop at the Belvedere Golf Club the other day, and had a very interesting chat with Jake White and Perry Smith. While reminiscing, they reminded me that Sam Sneed liked this course so much that he played it a few years ago that he went an extra 9 holes! Tom Watson, they tell me, also enjoys playing here when he can squeeze in the time.

Old-timers know that this is the 25th consecutive year of the Michigan State Amateur Golf Tournament on the Belvedere course and that is the 75th year of the State Tournament.

What many people don't know is that these exciting matches always include many former champions. This year, John Morgan of Birmingham will be defending his title and our local golfers, none of whom made the cut this year, will all be spectators. Too bad!

Last year was the first year players had to pre-qualify before they were eligible to play in the State tournament. The dates this year are set for June 17 to 21. And if there is no rain, the finals will be played on the 21st. Mark your calendar—it's free!

You are more than welcome to watch the fun. The crowds here in Michigan, as opposed to other states, are very small. Never more than 400-500. On Saturday and Sunday, tee-off time is at 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. On the final day, the outdoor award ceremony is usually held at 3:30 p.m. when the Staghorn Trophy is presented.

But you didn't know it's the oldest amateur trophy in the U.S., according to Jake.

A tip of the hat to the community minded Belvedere membership, who give up the course for one whole week, to bring this popular tournament right here to Charlevoix. In case you're wondering, it doesn't help the Golf Club piggy bank one bit either.

YOU MUST HAVE noticed the new sign on Belvedere Avenue, next to the Grey Gardens. Maison de Belvedere!

Well, this new bed and breakfast place is owned by Jan and Gordie Meyers. It's opening this week and is already 60 percent booked. And no wonder. The large, airy living room, filled with plants, is cozy and inviting. The high ceilings, the bedrooms are bright and airy— all freshly painted and papered. And you may enjoy breakfast in the dining room, on the front porch or on the patio. What a treat!

I can remember when Charlevoix was filled with rooming houses, which in turn were filled all summer with very fancy resorters. The decline of the rooming house coincided with the advent of the motels. People wanted service and especially breakfast, which few rooming houses provided.

Now the blossoming of Bed and Breakfast places offer guests the luxury of even having breakfast in one's robe, if one wishes, and when one is on vacation (or on rainy days, heaven forbid) this service surely meets our pampered need.

As the French say, the more things change, the more they remain the same.

Basic dirt farmer

By Bob Clock

There is a strange dichotomy out at the city gardens, and if you think that's a new variety of string bean you had better get another seed catalog.

Here's the situation: The city gardens are located cheek-by-jowl with the Charlevoix City Airport. The juxtaposition of the two facilities works out just fine, because the people who plan airports don't like tall buildings on runway approaches. Besides, the land is being put to a good, low-level use. At least I have never heard of an airplane crashing into a hill of cucumbers.

It so happens that most planes landing at Charlevoix use the east-west runway, which brings them in right over the city gardens. Each new arrival gives me an opportunity to look up from my grubby work in the potato patch and marvel at the world of free-wheeling aviators.

I DON'T FEEL so out-of-joint with the times when the planes are ancient Piper Cubs. But when the newer jets pass over, fully instrumented and with a fortune in computerized equipment aboard, I can't help but wonder how our two worlds—one so old and one so new—can exist only a few hundred yards apart—if only for a few seconds.

As your basic dirt farmer, I am not mechanized in the least degree. Some of my colleagues at the city gardens have gasoline-powered rotillers; but my tools consist of a spade, a hoe and a rake—implements that have not changed a great deal since the days of King Tut.

Furthermore, I don't have a garden hose long enough to reach the standpipe, so I carry buckets of water by hand. Sometimes I wish I had one of those fancy foot-powered waterwheels that Pharaoh used to irrigate his crops, but Holy Moses! A fellow can't have everything. Besides, it never hurt anyone to carry a few buckets of water a few hundred feet.

Someday, if I ever conquer my fear of theatrics, I am going to get a big earthen jug and carry water on my head, as they did in Biblical times.

IN ANY EVENT, there I stand, summer evening after summer evening, leaning on my hoe, clumps of earth clinging to my boots, sweaty brow pushed back like that of a Nasrid ruler, gazing skyward at the sleek eagles of modern aviation zoom in for a landing.

Sometimes I wonder if any pilot ever looks down—like a god from Mount Olympus—and is struck by the strange dichotomy we make, he and I, in that brief moment our paths cross.

I also wonder if he ever notices whether my rows are straight. I can't tell, even from the top of my cucumber hill.

An open letter to fourth-grade children of Charlevoix Public Schools

Dear Children:

Your letters of appreciation for what you learned during your May 28 visit to the Andrew J. Blackbird Museum were so beautiful and sensitive that they almost made me cry.

Allow me to thank you for being well behaved and polite, for asking intelligent questions, for showing an enthusiastic interest in what you say and heard. This is also true for the fourth-grade class of 1985. Your community can and should be very proud of you as young representatives.

My people, our culture and our history, are very important to me and I enjoy sharing what I know with such bright youngsters as yourselves. Young people, for soon you will no longer be children, may I ask that you always keep an open mind and positive attitude toward cultures not your own. Try to look at your fellow person and his/her actions from more than one point of view, for as my people say, "You cannot know your neighbor until you have walked one full day in his/her moccasins."

May the Great Spirit walk with you all the days of your life, this is my prayer for each of you.

And children, be thankful for teachers such as Mrs. Meier, Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Chew for considering a trip to an Indian cultural museum an important part of your education.

With love,

FOUNDATIONS OF FAITH
by Philip G. Schirbaum
First Congregational UCC

Recently our ninth and tenth graders were asked to write down their beliefs about the Trinity as part of their course of Confirmation.

The responses showed exceptional understanding and insight into the things of faith. Here is some of what they wrote:

- God is the Father of everyone and everything.
- God has always been around and always will be.
- God is the biggest, most powerful spirit in the universe.
- God created the universe and he looks over us, but isn't silent way.
- I believe God is alone. If we pray, most times the problem we have works out. But God gives you the first thought to get you on track and solves your problem. You think you solved it; well you did, but God started you.
- God creates us, protects us, loves us, and guides us. He is forgiving and fair and kind.
- God is the means by which the world will find peace...and satisfaction in the knowledge that there is always at least one who cares.
- Jesus is God's son, born of Mary, and put on earth to preach God's word.
- People could relate to Jesus, better than to God, because they could see Jesus—he was a person.
- Jesus came to bring peace to the world and to show us that there is a God, that He is divine, and that His

- way is best.
- Jesus came to give us a backbone for our belief in God.
- Jesus came to help us repent our sins, and to forgive and redeem us.
- Jesus died for us, and this is why we rejoice that he rose from the dead.

- His resurrection is just as important as his dying because it represents that if we let Christ into our hearts we can put away the old sinful self, let it die, and be born again, like in his resurrection.
- Jesus is still alive today. He lives everywhere in Christian hearts.
- I believe in Jesus because he believes in me.
- The Holy Spirit is one dimension of God.
- The Holy Spirit is God's spirit in us.

- The function of the Spirit is love. It brings hope and it will help our lives.

- The Holy Spirit is a being that can understand people.
- The Holy Spirit is God's way of getting into us.
- The Holy Spirit is our teacher, our comforter, and our guide.
- The Spirit affects us by making us more loving, gentle, and patient.
- The Spirit acts as a guide to holiness that helps us in our daily life.

These are the Foundations of Faith that all of us—young people and adults together—can affirm and celebrate. Three cheers for the youth in our churches who are working hard to grasp and live out their faith.

Chamber Chatter

Executive Director

If you haven't already submitted your entry for the 1986 Venetian T-Shirt Design Contest now is the time to do so. The contest winner will receive a $75 cash prize, and this year's shirt will carry the official winning logo.

To enter, just submit your original design of black art work on white letter-sized paper to the Chamber by June 30. Judging will be the first week of July.

One of the services provided by local volunteers is "stop-on-guide" tours of Charlevoix. The Chamber receives a lot of calls from tour bus groups from all over the state, many of which are scheduled for a Star Line cruise.

Already we have scheduled 10 tours. Shop of the Gulls owner, Jeannine Wallace, Mayor Hal Hill, and Mayor of Charlevoix owner, Don Danneker, have all volunteered to give these guided tours of Charlevoix. The average tour is approximately 45 minutes long and highlights the recreational facilities, the Belvedere and Chicago clubs, Memorial Bridge, the Earl Young homes, Boulder Park and other amenities in the area. Any group desiring this service, should contact the Chamber.

The 75th Annual Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament is in full swing. Thursday the "Sweet Sixteen Dinner" hosted by the Golf Association of Michigan will be held at the Grey Gables Inn. Saturday the new champion will be named. Be sure to stop out and watch the action. Plenty of free parking is provided.

Charles and Henrietta Weisler

Open house planned for

Charles and Henrietta Weisler

Charles and Henrietta Weisler will celebrate their 50th Wedding Anniversary at the Norwood Friendship Hall from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday July 12. Family and friends are invited to attend.

The open house reception will be hosted by their four children: Martin Weisler, Sr. of East Jordan, Raymond Weisler Sr. of Charlevoix, Rosalie Elliott of Weidman and Shirley Maging of Gaylord.

Mr. and Mrs. Weisler have lived near Norwood since 1947 when they bought the Will Alward farm. Both are now retired and have a home on Gemett Road.

Charles formerly worked as a farmer and an employee of the East Jordan Iron Works. Henrietta formerly worked as a teacher and as a Licensed Practical Nurse. Both were members of the National Grange. Charlevoix served as the Master of Barnard Grange and as County Deputy of the Grange.

Henrietta served as Lecturer of the Barnard Grange. She has been an officer of the Norwood School Board, Norwood Township Board, and of the Practical Nurses' Association. Both are members and former officers of the Norwood United Methodist Church and of the National Campers and Hikers Association.

Charles and Henrietta are enjoying their retirement with their four children, five grandsons, five granddaughters, one step-granddaughter, five great grandsons, and five great granddaughters.

Building permits issued

Fifty-three permits were issued by the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection during May, bringing the year's total up to 192.

Estimated construction costs for the new projects are $558,373, bringing the total for the year up to $5,487,181.

May permits included 10 for new houses, two of which will be built in the City of Charlevoix. Three others will be built in South Arm Township and one each in Bay Township, Chandler Township, Eveline Township, Marion Township, and Boyne City.

William and Jennie Zitka

William and Jennie Zitka celebrate 50th anniversary

The children and families of Norbert Nachazel (deceased) Ellsworth; Robert Nachazel, Boulder, Colorado; Edward Nachazel, Reston, Virginia; and Margie Nachazel Ewton, Denver, Colorado are inviting all relatives, friends and neighbors to attend an open house in honor of the 50th Wedding Anniversary of their parents, William and Jennie Zitka.

William and Jennie have resided in East Jordan most of their lives, living in the Bohemian Settlement until their marriage on May 10, 1906, at which time they bought a farm near Eveline Orchards and have been living there ever since.

Will and Jennie are still very active with their many friends, playing cards and traveling. They belong to St. Joseph Catholic Church and the Senior Citizens Club in East Jordan. They have 11 grandchildren and 7 great grandchildren.

The open house will be held on Sunday, July 6 from 1 to 5 p.m. at their farm at 19659 Phelps Road, East Jordan. This location is near the old Eveline Orchards between East Jordan and Charlevoix just off of M-46 highway.

Illinois leads list of states with visitors to northern Michigan

The largest percentage of nonresident overnight visitors to northwest Michigan come from the State of Illinois and the adjacent St. Louis, Missouri area.

A Family Opinion Service survey indicates that 33.4 percent of northwest Michigan tourists in 1982 were from this non-adjacent state. The next largest number, 30 percent, were from Indiana and the Louisville, Kentucky area; followed by Ohio and the northern Kentucky area surrounding Cincinnati, 24.2 percent; and the Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Iowa area, 18.1 percent.

When asked why they chose northwest Michigan as a vacation spot, these nonresident overnight visitors replied variously: For beautiful scenery, peace and quiet, commune with nature, uncrowded, good place for water recreation, friendly people, always go there, relatives live there, lots of things to do, good population.

Down near the bottom of the list of reasons for these visitors choosing northwest Michigan for their vacation were: Night life and entertainment, good hotels and motels, good restaurants, romance, and have second home here.

It would seem, therefore, that vacationers in northwest Michigan are mostly outdoors people seeking to get away from big city influences.

CHIP Counseling focuses on substance abuse in '85

by PEG OHLE

CHIP Counseling Center served 380 men, women, and children in five counties of northern Michigan during its fiscal 1984-1985 year. Of these, 280 were counseled for substance abuse, either by the person counseled or a member of his/her family.

This information and other related facts were contained in a report delivered to the County Board of Commissioners last week by Kari Walker, executive director of CHIP. The largest number of clients for substance abuse counseling came from Charlevoix County, probably because CHIP Counseling Center maintains its headquarters in Charlevoix and Charlevoix County Courts send most of their counseling subjects to CHIP.

During the period covered, 98 Charlevoix County residents, or 35 percent of persons counseled for substance abuse, came from Charlevoix County. Figures for other counties were Emmet County, 84 clients (30 percent); Antrim County, 76 clients (27 percent); Cheboygan County, 11 clients (four percent); and Kalkaska County, eight clients (three percent).

Six percent of those counseled were men and forty percent were women. The largest number (71 percent) were in the 30 to 39 age group, but all age groups were represented, from a five-year-old suffering the consequences of an alcoholic father, to senior citizens. Teenagers accounted for about 25 percent of the number.

Almost half of CHIP's clients were referred by District, Probate, or Juvenile Courts. Relatives or family members made the next largest number of referrals, followed by self-referrals, school, employers, and social service agencies of various types.

Forty-two percent of the clients were employed full time, 30 percent were unemployed and 64 in the work force, 15 percent were employed part time, and 12 percent were unemployed and looking for jobs.

Most of the people referred to CHIP Counseling Center (64 percent) were victims of alcohol abuse. Marijuana, used by six percent of the clients, was the only other drug specifically mentioned. They were all lumped into one category as "other," accounting for 30 percent of the abuses.

Forty percent of the costs of counseling was paid by insurance groups, including Blue Cross, 23 percent; other commercial insurance carriers, five percent; and Medicaid, 12 percent.

While CHIP spends much of its time counseling known substance abusers, it also has a program of substance abuse prevention which it is developing for all schools in the area, including the Charlevoix Middle School.

Bass anglers converge on Lake Charlevoix for tourney

Charlevoix is no stranger to boats of nearly every variety.

But last weekend Charlevoix witnessed an invasion of boats unlike its usual stock of sailing-sloops and big water trollers as members of the Michigan B.A.S.S. Chapter Federation gathered in Lake Charlevoix for one of their six annual tournaments.

Sixty-two of the low-slung bass boats, with metal fleck paint and high powered outboards, cruised the lake on Saturday and Sunday hoping to come up with some of the prize money offered by the B.A.S.S. chapter.

The boats, with two fishermen per boat, took off from Ferry Avenue at 8:30:00 a.m. each day and returned to East Park for the weigh-in at 3:15 p.m.

The bass fishermen boated 231 fish on Saturday and 138 on Sunday, nearly all of them smallmouth bass.

The biggest fish for the tournament was 4.62 pounds.

Duane Zack, president of Michigan B.A.S.S., said that all fish are kept in aerated live wells in the boats and are returned to the water alive after the weigh-in. Only one fish was brought in dead during the tournament, he said, and that cost the fisherman points.

Zack said eventual mortality of fish caught and returned to the water is no greater than 5 percent. Even during practice, he added, the tournament fishermen return nearly all their fish to the water.

Fishing rules require the use of artificial lures.

Many of the bass contest fishermen started arriving in Charlevoix two and three weeks ago to scout out the water. Several had been staying the week.

Taking first place both days of the tournament was the team of Kevin VanDam and Don Stevens. They brought in 18.10 pounds of fish on Sunday and 23.46 pound on Saturday, pocketing well over $3,000 in cash and prizes.

Stevens and VanDam, who had not ever seen Lake Charlevoix before last Thursday, said they did most of their fishing near Young State Park. Hot baits, they said, were silver rapalas and small jigs. Most of their fish were taken in three feet of water.

"Everything's been fine, for a town that hasn't ever heard of B.A.S.S. tournaments before," tournament official Andy Noworkas Jr. said.

Zack echoed those sentiments. "The town has treated us very nice." He said the group hopes to return in September when some 100 boats, and twice that number of fishermen, will participate.

Don Stevens (left) and Kevin VanDam (center) show off some of the fine catch of smallmouth bass that earned them first place in last weekend's bass tournament.

Grey Gables take league lead

Men's Softball League

Home runs have become the norm rather than the exceptions in most games in the men's softball league this season.

In Monday's games a total of seven round-trippers were hit. Rich's Topside Cafe defeated Pine Hill Nursery 12-9; Grey Gables downed Glen's Market 20-12 and Townhouse beat North Country Sanitation 10-9.

Phil Steel pitched the Topside to its 12-9 win, allowing 15 hits including a three-run homer by Jim Pinner. John Naples gave up 14 hits.

Randy Holechek had two homers, one good for two runs and another for three runs, and Ray LaVoie and Gene Morrison a two-run homer each, for Grey Gables. LaVoie allowed 12 hits. For Glen's, Howard Zoet allowed 20 hits and Bob Sladek hit a three-run homer and Chris Havens a grand slam.

Jim Werner allowed 15 hits and Dave Farnsworth, who took the loss, gave up 17 hits as Townhouse downed North Country 10-9.

Paul Bunyan Lanes had three home runs as they defeated Glen's Market 17-10 behind the pitching of Dan Gillespie. He allowed 10 hits. Howard Zoet, who allowed 20 hits, took the loss.

Kurt Messall and Clay Jones had two-run homers each and Dan Gillespie had a one-run homer. Steve Leazier had a two and Chris Havens a three-run homer for Glen's.

Pine Hill Nursery chalked up its second win of the season with and aid of two-run homers by Roger Chaney, Jim Pinner, Mark Cole and Kevin Zick. Scott Hamaker and Dave Olach had homers for McLelland Home Furnishings who lost to the Nursery 21-13.

Ken Peebles as the winning pitcher allowed 17 runs. Bill Gauthier allowed 21.

Grey Gables handed Rich's Topside Cafe its first loss of the season by a score of 18-8 behind the pitching of Ray LaVoie who allowed 10 hits. Phil Steel gave up 22 hits. LaVoie and Kim Mackewich had three-run homers and Erik Lundteigen one good for two runs.

In a single game played Thursday night, Grey Gables trounced McLelland 18-4.

Jim Marsh, as the winning pitcher, allowed only six hits while Bill Gauthier, who took the loss, gave up 25 hits.

On Friday, Glen's Market edged Townhouse 6-1 in a game that saw Howard Zoet allow only six hits as the team posted its second win of the season. Bob Alexander, who took the loss, gave up 11 hits.

Pine Hill Nursery took advantage of the 18 hits allowed by Alex Niedzialkowski to defeat North Country Sanitation 6-7.

Ken Peebles, the winning pitcher, gave up 12 hits.

Grey Gables took over the lead with a 6-1 record. Rich's Topside Cafe and Paul Bunyan Lanes with a 5-1 record, share second place followed by Townhouse and Pine Hill Nursery (3-4), North Country Sanitation (2-4), Glen's Market (2-5) and McLelland Home Furnishings (0-7).

Yachting Notes

by A. NONY MOUSE

JUST AFTER the last column, stating the prevailing winds were SW thru NW, along came last Wednesday's Race. Strong, and right up Lake Charlevoix (from the Southeast, of course).

A messenger is some one or thing that carries a message - in sailing terms, it's the light line designed to follow the end of a halyard up through the mast, when it's necessary to replace the old halyard. It's supposed to then be used to feed the new halyard. The particular messenger this mouse used last week carried a message! It broke the afternoon of the race, saying, in effect, "You don't really want to sail tonight, do you?" We didn't.

SO WE BECAME spectators - and there were lots of special acts put on for the discriminating viewer! While a man overboard is not a subject for humor, since it all turn out okay; Krieger gets the award for the Outstanding Performance - the crewmember gets the award for Hangin' In There, both while airborne and while water-borne!

Pygmalion did a "bottoms up" number that would have made My Fair Lady green with envy. Lots of fun sails, bent poles and hardware freed from its designated mounting, on the Detroit River, it was called, in Ghetto Gah, the "Merchants Wind"; not strong enough to bring out the storm canvas but just right to bring plenty of business to the Sailmakers, Chandlers and Yards.

The top Speed Merchant might have been predicted; Traveller (and Dave, I suspect) has always liked the wind. The next best and more of a surprise; Wingnut, the little 22 from B Fleet was just 3 minutes later and more than a minute ahead of Charlie Brown with the next six all in A Fleet.

The system doesn't do as well in this air, as only the three named were within the first five minutes.

A* Fleet: Traveller (1:06:33), Charlie Brown (1:09:37), Flying Machine and Plastic Fantastic (both 1:11:31), Pygmalion, Mint Julep, Columbine, Gotecha, Tiger and Krieger.

B Fleet: Wingnut (1:09:37), Flash (1:15:31) and Merry Hell.

C Fleet: Blazen III (1:15:30), Tireless, Cygnus and Phonocia.

JAM Fleet: Maureen (1:20:32), Canusa, Cheemman, Sandpiper, Cool Whip and Ribit.

MONTHLY BOARD MEETING at the club this Thursday evening, June 19, let Commodore Coolman know if you've any constructive comments or if you'd just like to offer to help. Since two of our members just got married and can share one membership, the Club has room for one more member. Shouldn't it be you?

Hey, power boaters and cruising sailors: Lots of room in these columns for news - activities, round your, ga sip, etc. We love you but can't show it without your help. A. Nony, Box 569, by Friday each week. Thanks.

Area law enforcement officers receive national medals of valor

Five area law enforcement officers were presented with medals and certificates of merit from the National Sheriff's Association at a recent meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

Sheriff George T. Lasater, his Deputies Donald Schneider and Donald Sproul, and Michigan State Police Troopers Steve Gutierrez and Mike Bottorff, were cited for their acts of bravery in helping subdue an armed man in his home near Ironton last June 22.

Responding to a telephone call, Deputies Schneider and Sproul found the man smashing windows, walls, and furniture. In a subsequent telephone conversation with Sheriff Lasater, the man told the Sheriff he would talk to him if the Sheriff came unarmed. When the Sheriff appeared at the house unarmed, the man pointed a gun at him. After the arrival of the State Troopers and much verbal persuasion by the Sheriff, the man finally gave up his gun.

The certificates of merit commend each officer for performing "an act of outstanding personal bravery, intelligently performed, in assistance to a member of a law enforcement agency in the line of duty, in the face of personal danger to life and safety."

SCHOOL BOARD reviews budget

by FRAN MARTIN

A tentative budget was approved and the recent disruptive commencement exercise discussed at length by the Charlevoix Board of Education, at its meeting Monday.

The board adopted a tentative budget of $5,092,710.

The budget will be finalized in October and at that time there will be a hearing. This budget is one we must have, but until we have an audit and know where we stand, we cannot complete it," said Vincent Olach, business manager.

The budget includes the entire cost of all phases of the operation including the Charlevoix Public Library, he said. It would be between a three and four percent increase over the 1985-86 budget.

The subject of commencement exercises was discussed at length. Supri Gierken VanWierwonen said it was important that the board recognize the problem and to do something about it.

It was suggested that a meeting of parents of students be held, guidelines drawn up by a committee of students, parents and school personnel and a decision made if the event before next spring.

At the same meeting, the board amended the general appropriations in preparation for the annual audit. "It is more or less a matter of adjusting the budget, taking funds from one account where they weren't used and placing them in one where there was an overrun," Olach explained.

TWO DEBT RETIREMENT payments were also approved, a $107,663 payment to the National Bank of Detroit for bonds dated July 1, 1964 (for the elementary school) and the final payment on the bonds dated April 1, 1959, (the high school) in the amount of $61,381 to the First of American Bank-Detroit.

New bed and breakfast homes spring up in Charlevoix

Maison de Belvedere in 99-year-old house

Maison de Belvedere (Belvedere House) is a new bed and breakfast accommodation in Charlevoix.

Located at 306 Belvedere Avenue, next to the Grey Gables, the 99-year-old house has been completely renovated, newly carpeted, furnished with period pieces, and decorated in warm, rustic colors.

Maison de Belvedere has a large common living area, a dining room, and a kitchen on the first floor; an old-fashioned porch that wraps around two sides of the house; and a cement patio surrounded by flower beds.

Guests may eat their breakfast almost anywhere—in the dining room, in the living room, on the porch, or outdoors on the patio.

There are six sleeping rooms, each with its own bath, and each distinctly decorated and color-coordinated.

One room is part of an efficiency apartment, which consists of a kitchen as well as the bedroom and bath. This apartment has twin beds but the other sleeping rooms are furnished with queen-size beds.

Two of the sleeping rooms are connecting rooms, which may be rented as a suite or separately.

Maison de Belvedere is run by Jan and Gordon Meyers. Gordon told the Courier they have been working on renovating the house since last fall. Next year they plan to remodel the basement into a recreation and exercise room.

Charlevoix Country Inn overlooks Lake Michigan

The old Victorian house at 106 West Dixon Street, which has seen many neighborhood changes throughout the years, has been the object of many changes itself during the last few months and now has a new purpose in life.

Renamed the "Charlevoix Country Inn," the house has been professionally redecorated from tip to toe and is ready to receive guests for lodging and breakfast.

The latest bed and breakfast establishment in Charlevoix has eight single bedrooms with shared baths and two apartments consisting of living room, kitchen, and bedroom with private bath. Many of the rooms have a wide-open view of Lake Michigan.

Every room is handsomely carpeted, wallpapered, and curtained in coordinating colors, and in a corner of each room there is an old-fashioned washbowl with running water. The furniture is Country Inn style, but the beds are all new to provide utmost comfort.

The hallway wallpaper of pineapple design (the symbol for "welcome") sets the theme for the whole "Charlevoix Country Inn." Guests may eat their breakfast in a bright little kitchen on the second floor, in a combination sitting room and gift shop on the first floor, or on the front porch sitting in a rocking chair that once was on the porch of The Inn, a long-ago hotel that was located across Dixon Avenue from the Charlevoix Country Inn.

Owners of the Charlevoix Country Inn are David Campbell, a Charlevoix attorney, Kathy Engle, an interior decorator with Bartlett's Decorator Center, and Douglas Gould, a high school vice-principal in Royal Oak. This summer, Mrs. Engle's daughter, Sarah, who recently graduated from the University of Michigan, will be innkeeper.

She will enter the law school at the University of Michigan in the fall.

Garden Club plants petunias

The "island" committee of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club planted colorful petunias in the island in the highway at the intersection of Petoskey and Michigan Avenues recently.

Nancy Wood heads the committee composed of Nancy Fowler, Mary Helen Ruggie, Kay Ball and Keith Morris.

The island is planted with tulips which are replaced every two years. After the blossoming of the early tulips, petunias are purchased from the Project: Petunia.

The workers removed bushes of weeds and prepared the soil before planting the petunias, Wood said.

The beautification of the island is one of several such projects sponsored by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club.

Garden Club receives state, national awards

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club received two prestigious awards, a state and a national award, at the 55th annual convention of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan.

The club was awarded the "Michigan Gold Award" issued to two state clubs of more than 21 members for the best standard flower show without commercial aid. The second award was the "National Purple Rosette Award" given for the best flower show without commercial aid.

The show for which the awards were given was the second annual standard flower show entitled "Our Town: Charlevoix the Beautiful" chaired by Derith Lane and Phyllis Block. The show, held at the Community Reformed Church in August 1985 at the time Julia Leedy was president, was judged by a panel of state judges. Because of the fine quality of the show, the club was advised to apply for an award.

A Book of Evidence which included a record of the attention given the show by the local media was one of the major requisites for the prizes and played an important role in the final decision.

The recent convention which Mrs. Lane, now president of the club, and Mrs. Block attended as delegates, was held in Ann Arbor. The theme of the convention, which offered speakers, workshops and demonstrations, was "M-G-Blue: Sky and Water."

Legion hosts pizza party

The Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 228, American Legion, and its Women's Auxiliary, sponsors of Charlevoix High School junior boys and girls to the annual June session of Wolverine Boys State at Michigan State University and Wolverine Girls State at Central Michigan University respectively, hosted a pizza party at the post home for both those who attended in 1985 and this year's candidates.

Joining them were the chairpersons of the selection committees, Louis McKenzie of the Legion and Nancy Wood of the Auxiliary, and their respective committees.

Summer reading program begins soon at library

The Charlevoix Public Library will again be sponsoring its popular summer reading program, Marybeth Wallick, librarian has announced.

The theme of this year's program will be "Celebrate Liberty—Read" in observance of the 100th anniversary of the Statue of Liberty. Anne Pfuecke has volunteered to be in charge of the program, Wallick said. The party which launches the program for all elementary school age children is scheduled for 1 p.m.

Thursday, June 26. All youngsters in this age group are invited to attend and participate in this program which will be an adventure in reading. If anyone has questions regarding the program they may call Wallick at 547-2851.

MUCC urges final push for wine cooler deposit petitions

The Michigan United Conservation Clubs is strongly urging all citizens who are distributing petitions on the wine cooler deposit issue to get the completed petitions back to MUCC state headquarters in Lansing as soon as possible to meet the early July filing deadline with the Michigan Elections Division of the Secretary of State's office, according to Executive Director Thomas L. Washington.

"Michigan residents have very little time remaining to circulate the petitions, gather the signatures and get those petitions back to MUCC for checking and tabulating," Washington acknowledged. "It is imperative that the petitions start coming back to us in large numbers so that MUCC staff can check each petition and tabulate the number of signatures."

In the first three weeks of the campaign, Michigan's largest conservation organization has distributed more than 410,000 petitions to individuals and groups in every county of the state. Statewide associations like the Michigan Interfaith Council of Alcohol Problems (MICAP), the Michigan Farm Bureau, the Michigan Environmental Council, the Audubon Society, and the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan (PIRGIM) have sent volunteers to public events around the state to gather voter signatures.

Another 110,000 petitions will be distributed with the July issue of Michigan Out-of-Doors, MUCC's monthly outdoor magazine, which will include a special appeal to petition circulators on the cover.

"Despite the fact that five wine cooler and mixed spirit deposit bills have been introduced in the Michigan Legislature, it's apparent that there will be no substantive action on these measures in the foreseeable future," Washington declared. "Unless we can secure the signature of 300,000 registered voters by July 1, our chances of including containers of wine coolers and mixed spirit beverages under our state's successful 'Bottle Bill' will simply disappear."

So far the MUCC has received petitions bearing the signature of more than 30,000 Michigan voters, or ten percent of the total needed. In addition, the hundreds of Michigan citizens have sent contributions totaling more than $5,000 to help in the drive to place the wine cooler and mixed spirit deposit issue on the ballot.

"If every person who has received a petition will simply sign their own name and send that petition back to MUCC headquarters, we will have more than enough signatures to trigger a vote on this issue in the November election," Washington observed. "Our right as citizens to cast our vote on this important conservation issue depends entirely on our willingness to get actively involved in this campaign. I'm optimistic that the people of Michigan will respond in a very positive manner."

Persons interested in obtaining petitions to put the deposit issue on the ballot are urged to call MUCC at 517-371-1041 during regular business hours.

Wine coolers littering the roadsides have caused Michigan citizens to push for their addition to the "Bottle Bill."

Coast Guard pair receives lifesaving awards

Two members of the crew of the U.S.C.G.C. Mesquite were recently presented with the prestigious Professional Police Association's Lifesaving Award by the Manitowish (Wis.) Professional Police Association.

The award was presented for the pair's efforts in rescuing a drowning man from the waters of the Manitowish River on June 30, 1985, while the ship was moored at the Municipal Pier in Manitowish during a lighthouse restoration project.

The men are Boatwain's Mate, First Class, Eric Kyvik and Health Services Technician, Third Class Grant Waldron.

The lifesaving incident occurred when Kyvik, crossing the Eighth Street Bridge in Manitowish while returning to the ship, saw a man in the water and dove from the bridge 25 feet above the water to his rescue. Waldron, aboard the ship saw what was happening and dove in to assist.

The two crewmen and the victim were later picked up by a passing pleasure craft and taken ashore where the man was taken to the hospital via ambulance after being given artificial respiration by the pair until the ambulance arrived.

Earlier the two men had been cited by the U.S. Coast Guard for their heroism and bravery and presented with the highest honors the Coast Guard can bestow on its personnel when not involved in contact, the Coast Guard Medal.

Kyvik is a veteran of nine years in the U.S. Coast Guard and came to Charlevoix following a tour of duty at Holland. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kyvik and a native of Boulder, Colo. Waldron is a veteran of three years in the U.S. Coast Guard and prior to that time served as a U.S. Army Airborne medic at Fort Bragg, N.D. He came to the Mesquite from the U.S. Coast Guard Academy Hospital in June 1985. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jon Waldron of Sheboygan, Wis.
